10. Training impact: *Describe the training impact for your institutions and for the participants.

We believe that young generations play important roles as agents of change in the community. Providing education to the children will trigger behavior change including behavior toward litter in their environment.

11. Lessons Learned: *Describe what lessons you learned in organizing and implementing the training. Lessons learned can be positive or negative and these will help to improve your future work quality and actions.

Every input and feedback related to marine litter problems shared by training participants are worth to be listened by the presenter (trainer). People should give chance to children to speak in good manner. This is important to gain trust and draw other participant's attention to focus on the problem-solving offered by the presentation (trainer).

We believed that a two-way communication approaches such as interactive discussion and sharing experiences are more effective in drawing participant's attention to the training topics, so we are going to continue on this subject.
